

Super Sentence Swap

When writing complex sentences, you will have noticed that sentences can sometimes start with the subordinate clause (the clause that tells the reader more about the main clause). When the subordinate clause comes at the start of the sentence, you need to separate it from the main clause with a comma. For example:

Lightning Lad rushed to save everyone despite the danger.

Despite the danger, Lightning Lad rushed to save everyone.

Cut out the sentences below. Cut off the subordinate clause and place it at the beginning of the sentence. Glue your answer onto another sheet of paper. Remember to correct the capital letters and add commas in the correct places.
