

The Faraway tree series tells of adventures of the children going to different lands at the top of the faraway tree.

In order to make the reader feel like they are there in the land, Enid Blyton writes descriptions of the places the children visit.

Today, I would like you to choose one of the pictures of possible lands below. Around the picture I want to write as many nouns (in red), adjectives (in blue), verbs (in green) and adverbs (in orange) - change the colours if you don't have those.

Then, when you have collected all of your words, I would like you to write expanded noun phrases to describe the land.

For example; If you wrote waves you could expand it like this:

Waves - noun

The waves - noun phrase

The enormous waves - expanded noun phrase

The enormous waves with foam crashing down - expanded further

Watch the video to help remind you:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/articles/zhfgcqt>

Land of the lighthouse

Land of the fairground

Land of the mini beasts

